Among the social events in Butte the past week none were more delightful than the elegant reception tendered the various women's clubs of this city by the Homer club, Thursday, at the hospitable and handsome home of Mrs. Charles W. Clark, corner Granite and Idaho streets. The spacious and richly furnished parlors were filled with elegantly attired ladies, and the charming hostess entertained her guests in royal style. An excellent musical and literary feast had been arranged for the occasion, and souvenirs in shape of beautiful hand-painted programmes, inscribed, "Greetings of the Homer Club to the Physical Culture Club, Women's Club, and Atlas Club," were distributed among the guests. Mrs. Sturtzoff of Helena was present. She is a singer of considerable celebrity and contributed much to the delights of the function by rendering several selections. Splendid refreshments were served, and excellent papers read. The programme was as follows:

Buzo's paper was "The Best Novel of the Year." The lady treated her theme in a happy and entertaining manner. She mentioned all the principal novels issued during the past year and the company gleaned from the reading of the paper a pretty fair conception of the contents of each publication. It was Mrs. Buzo's opinion that the best novel was that from the pen of Mrs. Storch, entitled, "On the Face of the Waters." Mrs. Emerson Weirick delighted the company with an excellent rendition of "Jamie" and "The Soliloquy of a Five-Days-Old Baby." Mrs. W. C. Dierks closed the programme by singing an aria from "Mignon." ### IN DEER LODGE.

Deer Lodge, May 22.—The local committee on entertainment of the Society of Christian Endeavor, which will hold its annual state association convention in this city June 9 to 12, is in receipt of the gratifying information from the various societies throughout Montana and from the officers of the state association to the effect that the convention of 1897, in point of attendance, bids fair to be the most successful meeting in the history of the Montana branch of the society.

The several committees on entertainment are sparing no effort and enlisted with them are many local business men, who will lend a hand in making the visit of the delegates a pleasant one.

Dr. C. G. Glass left Deer Lodge last Monday overland for Gibbonsville, Idaho, being called to the bedside of Lee Bernard, whose serious illness was mentioned in the Standard Deer Lodge dispatches of May 8.

The doctor arrived in Gibbonsville on Tuesday afternoon, but was too late to be of any assistance to the sufferer, who died before the physician's arrival. The remains of the young man were interred in the cemetery at Gibbonsville, where they will rest until autumn, when the body will be removed to the family plot in the Deer Lodge burying ground. The deceased was born on the Bernard farm, near Stuart, in this valley, and removed with his mother and family to Deer Lodge when about 6 years of age, attending both the public school and College of Montana, taking a special course in chemistry in the latter institution to better fit himself for his chosen profession. He entered an Eastern school of pharmacy some four years ago, graduating with high class honors at the end of his term, and had been connected with a drug house in Gibbonsville for the past 18 months. Lee was a young man recently turned his 22d year, of exemplary habits, who was possessed of many traits which go to make up a gentleman, and his life-work, though scarcely begun, showed his every act to be prompted by a noble impulse. He leaves a mother, Mrs. L. A. Bernard of this city; a sister, Mrs. J. C. Savery, and two brothers, A. Bernard and Albert Moug, the latter being with him when he breathed his last, who mourn his untimely end and to whom the sympathies of the community are extended.

We hope Mrs. Hoffman while in Deer Lodge will sustain her reputation as a reformer and convert to the pure, cold water faith our three remaining inebriates.

Mrs. Harvey Cullum of Butte will visit Deer Lodge friends next week.
